ABOUT 2021

Kubernetes has taken the industry by storm, and as it has evolved, so have the conversations about security, observability, serverless, and gitops. The full impact these topics have on technology is still emerging.

Join attendees on June 8 - 10 for DevNation Federal, a three-day immersive virtual experience created to bring the public sector the most exciting developer and technology updates about cloud native applications, and highlight agencies and organizations that are innovating in this space.

This premier event is the only one of its kind, produced by developers for developers. DevNation Federal brings the most respected industry experts, government officials, academic leaders and key maintainers of popular open source projects to your screen.
